Claims 11-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for neuropeptide derivatives containing the tetrahydrofuran heterocyclic moiety, does not reasonably provide enablement for derivatives drawn to the vast range of heterocyclic containing derivatives, particularly, for example, N-heterocyclic derivatives. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. There is insufficient enabling disclosure to support the terms heteroaryl R¹, R³, R⁵, R⁶, R⁷, R⁹, R¹¹ and Q derivatives were prepared. In In re Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1400 (1988), factors to be considered in determining whether a disclosure meets the enablement requirement of 35 U.S.C. § 112, first paragraph, have been described. They are:

- 1. the nature of the invention,
- 2. the state of the prior art,
- 3. the predictability or lack thereof in the art,
- 4. the amount of direction or guidance present,
- 5. the presence or absence of working examples.
- 6. the breadth of the claims,
- 7. the quantity of experimentation needed, and
- 8. the level of the skill in the art.

In the instant case, Applicants are claiming heterocyclic substituted alkylene diamine derivatives. Applicants have not disclosed any working examples which would demonstrate, or guide, one skilled in the art as to how the heterocyclic substituted derivatives other than those substituted tetrohydro furan, in particular N-heterocyclic derivatives, were prepared or obtained. The process of making the heterocyclic substituted derivatives or how these heterocyclic derivatives were obtained is not readily apparent from the specification. The specification must teach how to make the invention, one skilled in the art would have speculate how the derivatives were obtained invention. In re Gardner, 166 U.S.P.Q. 138 (1970). In order to practice the claimed or prepared. Therefore, the instant invention is not enabled. Claims limiting the scope of these terms should overcome this rejection.
